Description

I posted a meme on Facebook regarding what Trump said about Charlottesville and how there were "fine people" at that rally. You know, violence by "many sides". The meme compares those statements to what he said about NFL players who are protesting and him calling them "sons of bitches". It is basically calling out Trump as a bigot. I instead got targeted by Facebook for posting hate speech. This is ridiculous. They won't even explain to me how what I posted is "hate speech". I believe that it is not "hate speech" at all. It is trying to call out hate by our president. So it is the opposite of hate speech. Yet I just got a 24 hour ban from them. How can they be allowed to do this kind of thing. Do I have any First Amendment rights at all? And where is the due process? Facebook has zero accountability.

Description

I had the TV on while making dinner with my family and I heard President Trump clearly say, "Son of a b****" over the air without being censored. I do not appreciate hearing this kind of language. Fox News Channel should be fined for allowing the obscenity to go out over the air.
