What They're Saying

- "The American Conservation Coalition is a vital and important new voice in the movement to develop effective policies and build coalitions to address the risks of climate change. In particular, ACC's ability to energize young conservatives to constructively engage in climate issues has the potential to reshape the politics of climate action and offers hope that real, meaningful progress is not only possible but inevitable." - Sasha Mackler, Director of the Energy Project at the Bipartisan Policy Center
- "Trout Unlimited is pleased to support the American Climate Contract. We look forward to working with a new generation of conservationists pushing for innovative technological and natural solutions that will reduce emissions and enhance climate change resiliency." - Chris Wood, Trout Unlimited President
- "The American Climate Contract allows conservatives our deserved voice at the table for environmental concerns. We need smart leadership to continue America's leadership on driving down carbon emissions—and I'm proud to support ACC's effort." - Charlie Kirk, Founder & President of Turning Point USA
- "It is important that the next generation of Republicans continue to rise to the challenge of meeting complex problems with practical solutions. Not only is it important to dispel the fiction that our party does not care about nature, but we must also be proactive in showing that a strong economy and a clean environment are not mutually exclusive goals." - Peter Shenouda, Chairman of the New Jersey Federation of College Republicans
- "Now more than ever those who support individual liberty and free market principles must stand tall to meet the challenges of the 21st century and support the American Climate Contract." - Killian R. Laverty, Pennsylvania State Chairman of Young Americans for Liberty
- "Republicans need a conservative approach that supports free market and limited government solutions that encourage innovation, energy independence and infrastructure modernization. With the American Climate Contract, we have a plan that does just that." - Rick Loughery, Chairman of Young Republicans National Federation
