

Notiifications of delayed tests under 40 CFR § 75.68

On April 22, 2020, EPA issued an interim final rule - Continuous Emission Monitoring; Quality-Assurance Requirements During the COVID-19 National Emergency - to temporarily amend the part 75 emission monitoring and reporting regulations for the Acid Rain Program, the Cross-State Air Pollution Rule (CSAPR), and the NOX SIP Call. The temporary amendments are designed to reduce the COVID-19 exposure risk to power plant and other essential personnel. Under the amendments, power plant operators that cannot complete a required quality assurance activity due to travel, plant access, or other safety restrictions implemented to address the current COVID-19 national emergency can temporarily continue to report measured data instead of substitute data.

If a facility cannot complete a required quality assurance test by the otherwise applicable deadline under part 75, the facility must submit a notification to EPA (refer to 40 CFR § 75.68 for more details). This document includes a list of the notifications EPA has received.

This document reflects all notifications received before: May 8, 2020